Numb. 1206

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Thursday May 17. to Monday May 21. 1677.

Warsaw, May 10.

THE Dyet that was held here, having had a happy Concluſion, the Ambaſſadors that were made choice of to go to the Port, and to the Czar of Moſcovy, are preparing for their journies; the Palatine of Culm, who is deſigned for the firſt, has already ſent away greateſt part of his Baggage, and will himſelf follow ſome time the next week; the Ambaſſadors for Moſcovy are the Prince of Czartoriſky on the part of the Crown, and the Palatine of Poſnia on the part of the great Dukedom of Lithuania. The King has for ſome time put off his journey into Pruſſia. The Archbiſhop of Gneſna is going to Rome. We have had advice from ſeveral hands, that the Turk make great preparations for War, and that they intend them againſt the Moſcovites, who, if ſo, will probably ſeek the friendſhip of this Crown, and may perhaps in that conſideration be perſuaded to reſtore Kiovia, according to the obligation of the laſt Treaty concluded between us and them, which hitherto they have not comply'd with, taking advantage of the Troubles and Wars this Kingdom has been involved in.

Copenhagen, May 18. We have nothing to tell you from hence, ſave of the preparations that are making for the Campagne, which will be begun in a ſhort time; and to that end our Troops are daily ſent over to Schonen. The 4000 men of the Biſhop of Munſter, which are coming hither, march but ſlowly, and commit ſome diſorders in the Countries they paſs, but we hope they will make amends for it when they come into the Field, being, as we are informed, a Body of brave Men, and in good Equipage. Major General Santberg, who misbehaved himſelf in the laſt Battel near Lundun is by Sentence of the Council of War condemned to die, but the King has pardoned him as to his Life. Sentence has been likewiſe given againſt Colonel Cecignon, by which he is deprived of the Command he had; and is at his own charge to recruit the Regiment he had, which is given to another.

Hamburgh, May 18. The Brandenburg Troops are marching in Pomeren to the place appointed for their Rendezvous, and at the ſame time the Artillery is drawn out with ſeveral great Mortar-pieces, which are to be employed in the Siege of Stetin, with which the Elector of Brandenburgh ſeems ſtill reſolved to begin the Campagne. The Swedes, we hear, have not been wanting to put that place into the beſt condition it is capable of, and therefore the general opinion is, that that Siege, when ever it is undertaken, will coſt both time and pains. The Munſter Troops which are paſſed into the ſervice of Denmark march very ſlowly, and in their march are very vexatious and troubleſom to the Countrey people, who complain extremely. From Copenhagen they write, that the King was preparing to take the Field, that he had already ſent over a great many Forces to Landſcroon, and that the reſt would follow very ſuddenly; that Chriſtianſtadt held out ſtill, and that the Governor gave hopes of his being able to ſubſiſt yet a month or ſix weeks.

Ditto, May 21. The Campagne, as it uſually does, will begin ſomewhat late in theſe parts; the Elector of Brandenburg, as we underſtand, has appointed the general Rendezvous of his Forces on the firſt of the next month. From Lubeck they write, that by a Veſſel arrived there from Sweden, they had advice, that 14 Men of War had been burnt at Stockholme, by what accident was not known, which had cauſed a great conſternation there among the people, but this will need a confirmation. In Poland affairs are at preſent in a very quiet poſture, through the happy Concluſion of the Dyet; the Elector of Brandenburgh ſeems not now to apprehend any diſturbance from that ſide, which was not long ſince very much feared by thoſe who were concerned for the diverſion it would have given his Electoral Highneſs.

From the Duke of Lorrain's Camp at Greuenmacheren, May 17. We are come thus far on our march back towards the Moſelle, which we ſhall repaſs at Waſſerbillich, (where a Bridge is accordingly prepared) to join the Body commanded by Count Caprara. Six Companies of the Marquis de Grana's Regiment which are at Bonne, and the Imperial Regiment, that are at Trier and Luxemburg, have orders to march and join us. We underſtand that the Mareſchal de Crequi aſſembles his Forces between Metz and Nancy, receiving daily detachments from Auſtria as well as Flanders. We reckon in few dayes to have our whole Army together, and then we may be able to give you ſome farther account of our deſigns, which in the mean time are diſcourſed of with great uncertainty. Our Commiſſaries are very diligent in making the neceſſary proviſion of Victuals, and every day a great many Wagons laden therewith arrive in the Camp.

Strasburgh, May 18. The 16 inſtant, all the Mines which had by order of the Sieur de Monclar been prepared under the Walls, Gates, and other Fortifications at Saverne were blown up, and ſo the demolition of that place was finiſhed in a ſhort ſpace of time. It is reported here that the Sieur de Monclar aſſembles ſome Troops near Saverne, with deſign to go and attack the Caſtle of Lichtenberg belonging to the Count of Hanaw. We are aſſured that the French are plaining a way between Briſac and Markirk, in order to the ſending ſeveral pieces of Cannon into Lorrain, and that this day all the French Troops which have lodged in the Upper Alſace, are on their march towards Markirk, except 5 or 6000 Men only, which are in Gariſon at Briſac and Schleſtadt. We do not as yet hear any thing of the march of the Troops of the Circles, which, as we are told, are to be employed this Campagne in the blocking up, or beſieging of Briſac.

Francfort, May 19. In our laſt we gave you an account that the Imperial Troops, in two diſtinct Bodies, had paſſed the Rhine, and deſcended towards the Moſelle, ſince we underſtand that the Duke of Lorrain is coming back towards Treves to meet them, and that on the 25 inſtant they will be all joined together; after which we are confident to hear in a few dayes of ſome action of importance, the Duke being reſolved to puſh on his deſigns with the utmoſt vigor. The Munſter Troops that were lodged in Wetteravia, decamped two days ſince, and marched towards the Rhine.

Cologne,